

Each day that our state legislation is in session, the TX lobbyists look out for you, your business and the home building industry.

The Texas Association of Builders promotes home ownership and fights legislation that could result in cost increases to you and residential buyers.

As one of the state's strongest advocates for the home building industry, Texas Association of Builders and their team of lobbyists speak for you in Austin, educating elected officials about the realities of home building and promoting sound, positive legislation. They also keep you informed of new laws and regulations that can critically affect your profitability and the way you do business.

Learn more about the issues that affect you and your business and how you can get involved.

